The MLA Style Center
Teaching Resources

ASSIGNMENT

Blog Post about Citation Practice

For this blog post, you will practice writing a list of works cited.

To do this, find four different kinds of things in your home or study areas and cite them! The items don't need to be scholarly sources; they could be magazines, TV shows, books, real-life items, or something else. They can come from either your physical or your digital collections.

Then, please write a few sentences about cases in which you weren't sure what to do or had difficulty locating the information you needed for the citation or resolving a guideline from the MLA Handbook. We'll talk about this more in class.

© NANCY FOASBERG, PUBLISHED BY THE MODERN LANGUAGE ASSOCIATION (STYLE.MLA.ORG)